By Telegraph to The Times.

CONVENTION HALL, MINNEAPOLIS, June -[Special.] It is high noon in the cusing point of American politics, and the great men of the Nation are filing into their places on the floor of the mammoth auditorium at Minneapolis. Aloft, on a flag-garlanded platform, suspended near the roof, the band plays a national air. Suddenly a ripple of applause breaks out near an entrance and, as Ingalls of Kansas passes down the long aisle of delegates' seats, the ripple expands into a roar. The tall Cottonwood of the big prairies looks neither to the right nor the left, but sinks into his seat, quite the first incident in the great convention which holds in its hand the destiny of men and the greater destiny of a greater party. The hall is over-awing in its tremendous expanse. It seats 10,000 people, and the space is so vast that faces in the galleries sloping to the roof are but shadowy outlines. But the delegates are well grouped on a level in front of the stage. From the press quarters it would seem that to those in the distance the proceedings would he but little more than a pantomime, but the acoustics are superb, and though there is a forest of pillars cutting off the view from some points, the spectator with the supple neck will likely miss but few of the main features of the

Warner Miller, ready for the fall of Chairman Clarkson's gavel. Then a akes the blees ing of the Deity, the delegates and packed galleries standing meanwhile with bowed heads. Only the writers remain seated, and their pencils race over the white sheets as each formulates in his own distinctive fash of eyes. Clarkson nominates Fassett of New York for temporary chairman, and calls for the aves and noes. He is unan imously chosen, and the rumored contest fails to materialize. Mr. Fassett demonstrates to the great audience that he is a brainy man. His voice rich and far-reaching, makes a fine or gan with which to speak the faith that is in him. He voices the word "recinrocity," and the gathered delegates and auditors, with Blaine in their minds, shake the great building with applause. He shows that he has finesse, for he makes a single sentence of the names Harrison and Blaine when he calls the roster of Republican heroes, and the leaders and the contestants on the floor are forced to join together in a roar of cheers that lasts for minutes, but it is a joint, double-headed yell, and no one can tell where the Harrison war cry ends and the Blaine whoor begins. Fassett speaks the name of Tom Reed and the whole house seems to be on its feet instantly. When the chairman closes his address cries of "Reed! Reed! Reed!" rent the air. The stout statesman from the Sunrise State rises in his seat be hind the stage and bows his acknowle edgement, but a speech is demanded and he advances to the platform, and with a voice as big as his brain and figure rouses the enthusiasm of the thou sands who hang intent upon his brief but glowing sentences.

There is a roll call of States. The grand men of the Nation who head the on Eudding at Minn

Kinley is called upon to speak, but though his Napoleonic profile rises out of the sea of faces, he only bows his thanks. There is a whoop-up when the hards are reached. baby States of the Dakotas are reached,

York and dusky Perry Carter of the District of Colum bia, as they rise in their places to an nounce the names of appointees on com mittees, is sufficient to start a volley of applause for each of them ..

Then the chairman announces an ad journment until 11 o'clock tomorrow and the great audience disperses

California is immediately in the front row of seats, and her banner of gold and white is conspicuous close up to the press tables. But the State which has always been so true to the man from Maine is losing, if it has not already lost, its grand opportunity to absolutely make a President.

Six of the delegation are presumably for Harrison, three of them from Southern California, Blaine will surely be nominated if the situation as it is tonight remains unchanged The Harrison men are weakening all along the line, they are looking for a refuge in the camp of McKinley or some other dark horse, but it is not believed they can do the steering act against the swift Blaine current. There was a feeble attempt at the California headquarters tonight company with Senator Felton, but declined to say more than a dozen words or so, and after holding a "hypnotic nd seance" for a few me parted in the deluge that has been pouring down all night. The everlasting pour has quite dampened everyody's ardor, but at the West Hotel there was a hurrah about 10:30 that was a corker. Col. Plummer of Dakota ion, the scene as it appears to his pair stood on the staircase and made a Blaine speech that shook every arc light in the great rotunda.

Then some callow youth undertoo to exploit the cause of Harrison, but found it uphill work until reinforced by a noisy drum corps, which drizzled in from the reeking street.

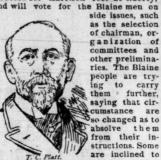

The report comes from Missouri to night that primaries are being held there for the purpose of instructing delegates for Blaine. The returns show 93 per cent. in his favor as against Harrison, and it is having great weight in swinging wavering people into line from other States The fight is bitter and red-hot, and the situation is critical, but out of the gloom and noise and dirty weather will ome sunshine and victory unless all L. E. MOSHER. signs fail.

BEFORE THE CALL TO ORDER.

Leaders Laboring With Delegates—Scen in the Convention Hall. MINNEAPOLIS, June 7 .- By the Asso ciated Press. The day was murky and the muddy waters of the Mississipi boomed suilenly along. Everybody was in a savage humor. It was felt that there was great need of unusual power in the prayer opening the con-power in the prayer opening the convention to assist in preventing scenes of unusual bitterness and strife.

The efforts of the Harrison men were devoted to holding the Southerners'in line and keeping them true to their assurances, as well as delegates from Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and other States where Blaine sentiment has heretofore been rampant. They express undiminished confidence in the renomination of Harrison, and say Blaine's foldiminished connection in the renomina-tion of Harrison, and say Blaine's fol-lowers are beginning to realize that it is impossible to beat Harrison with Blaine alone, and are trying to bring out Cullom to divide Illinois' strength, delegations are recognized upon rising with the clapping of hands and the fluttering of handkerchiefs. Mc-are inclined to T. C. Platt. are inclined to quences of violating their instructions, with the chance of getting on the wrong side is too great. The opening of the convention found the Presidential contest still a problem to be solved. The leaders of the two factions had exhausted every resource of strategy and diplomacy, but the toil and vigil of unceasing conferences and sleepless nights had been unable to bring eitner man within less than fifty votes of the haven of his hopes. The indications for the first formal ballot are that it may be taken 'tomorrow or next day, but some predict that the de-The opening of the convention found next day, but some predict that the de-cisive contest will be postponed till Friday. The confident prediction of the Blaine men that the selection of Fasset for temper rary chairman meant Blaine's success, led the Harrison people to consider the advisability of making a contest. Sen-ator Cullom stated this morning that he did not desire to be drawn into the con did not desire to be drawn into the con-test, so it became necessary for the Harrison managers to look for another candidate if Fassett's selection was contested. Prayer was offered by Rev. William Bush, chancellor of the university at Mitchell, S. D., who prayed that deliberations of the coaven-tion might be free from partisanship, that the great good of the Nation might that the young of California, one of the secretaries of the National Committee, read the official call of the

Chairman Clarkson then announced the selection of Hon. J. Sloat Fassett of New York for temporary chairman. There was a momentous hush. Everybody was awaiting possible action by the Harrison element in opposition to. Fassett's selection, but the anticipated contest did not take place. No one was alread in provinciant in a presention in contest did not take place. As one placed in nomination in opposition to him, and he was declared unanimously elected. asked the generous forbearance and cooperation of the convention. He said it was eminently fitting that a Repub-lican convention should be held in a temple erected for the display of the products of American industry, pro-tected by American laws enacted by Republicans (Great applace) Cop-temple erected for the display of the products of American industry, protected by American laws enacted by Republicans. [Great applause.] Continuing, he said:

We are met together to exercise one of the highest privileges of citizenship. As trustees of 7,000,000 Republicans from every State and Territory in the Union it comes to be our duty to act wisely and judiciously for the good of our party, relative to the living political questions of national importance as well as to select a man for a leader under whose leadership we feel we shall be most sure of establishing a belief in the forms of law advocated by Republicans. We are not here as warring factions, struggling to win under a favorite, but as members of one great party looking to select from the shining row of our honored great men the type of statesman who shall be regarded as the soundest and most complete embodiment of the cardinal doctrines of our party. We are all eager for success, We have to make the necessary preliminary arrangements and propose to make them in the right way and in the right spirit. If there ever is a time when it is proper for Republicans to differ it is on precisely such occasions as this, when they gather for the express purpose of reaching all timate unity through the clash and contest of present differences. In the wide-reaching and delicate business of agreeing upon the standard-bearers for a great-party there is abundant opportunity for honest men to hold and express honest differences of opinion. The more determined the contest the more complete will be the final unanimity. The air is always sweeter and purer after a storm. Our differences should and will end at the convention doors. The eyes of all Republicans and all our adversaries everywhere are intently fixed on this convention. The responsibility is enormous but you will meet it wisely. The Republican party never yet made a mistake in the choice of a candidate. It will not make a mistake here. The history of our party since 1850 is the history of our party since 18

The speaker then rapidly ran over The speaker then rapidly ran over the conspicuous acts of the Republican party, including the suppression of the rebellion, protection to American labor and industries and reciprocity. The re-sults achieved were that the nations of the earth were paying tribute to the sagacity of our legislation and diplo-sagacity of our legislation and diplo-macy, and England even was driven to the significant confession that free trade had proved a disappointment. The speaker then proceeded to touch on the improvement of rivers and harbors, the building of the navy, mainte-nance of peace at home and respect abroad; in everything compelling the Democrats to admit they were wrong and the Republicans right. They had about exhausted the year of 1891 in vain assaults on three items in the tariff bill. At this rate they would have to be trusted for about 800 years in power before we could see tariff reform on we could see tariff refo ed upon by our conflicting Democratic friends.

Continuing, the speaker dwelt at length upon the disfranchisement in the South and declared that the Repub lican party would see justice done negro.

All were ready when names of Harri-son and Blaine were mentioned, and for three minutes there was cheering, waving of hats and handkerchiefs wildly in the air.

Another scene came when the chair-man praised the work of the Fifty-first Congress under the iron will and strong arm of Tom Reed. The demonstration in behalf of the ex-Speaker was almost equal to that when the names of Harrison and Blaine were mentioned. Some one started the cry of "Reed! Reed!" It was instantly taken up by the delegates and gallery, but Reed displayed his usual modesty, and not until the chairman commandingly until the chairman commandingly beckoned him would be finally rise from his seat and come forward amid showers of applause. Reed delivered a brief, brilliant ab-dress, at the conclusion and during the progress of which he was frequently and loudly applauded. His references to the Democracy, tinged with wit an sarcasm, particularly excited hilarit and uproarious applause.

The convention then selected minor officers as proposed by the National Committee, including secretaries, read-ing clerks and official stenographers. It was decided that until a permanent organization is effected, the convention shall be governed by the rules of the preceding convention. Then each State, on motion of ex-Senator Sewell, of New Jersey announced the names of the persons selected to serve on the various committees. When Alabama was called it was announced that the contest in that State had just been settled. In that State had just been settled. In-dian Territory was not called, although delegates were present claiming the right to representation. It is under-stood that this matter will be decided

THAT KIDNAPING CASE.

Marsh and Smallcomb Hold to Answer to the Charge. The Marsh-Smallcomb examination on at San Diego, resulted in both men being held to answer by Justice Sloan in $1000 bail each. The following particulars are from the San Diego Sun of

Monday:

A large crowd assembled yesterday morning in Justice Sloane's courtroom to hear his decision in the Marsh-Smallcomb examination, which was on trial the greater part of last week. The court's decision was guite lengthy, and carefully reviewed every important part of the evidence adduced at the examination. Justice Sloane said: "The defendants in this case, Thomas Smallcomb and A. W. Marsh, are charged with forcibly kidnapigs the body of one Edward Grosthwaite hom the State of Callfornia into the republic of Mexico. That Brosthwaite was kidapped is apparent beyond a doubt both from his own evidence and that of Vasquez and also the attendant circumstances, which render it extremely improbable that Crosthwaite would go across the line into a country where the serious charge of murder was pending against him merely to escape a lesser charge in this country. It is also equally apparent that the defendants in his action had nothing to do with the bodily carrying away of Crosthwaite. If guilty at all they are so because they arranged the circumstances by which Crosthwaite was Brought to Tis Juna on the night is questioned. A large crowd assembled yesterday morning in Justice Science's courtroom to have the circumstances by which Crosthwaite fell into the hands of the Mexican officials. The evidence shows that Crosthwaite was frought to Tia Juana on the night is question on a warrant sworn to by Marsh in apparently good faith. There is absolutely softling in the history of the transaction to sonnect the defendant with the commission of a crime up to the arrival of Smallcomb at National City. If Crosthwaite had not been spirited across the line that night then there would have been nothing which would have been nothing which would not suggested that a crime way contemplated. As a matter of fact the incidents in the affair are equally applicable to either the prosecution or the defense. The only reason we have for believing the defendants guilty is the fact that a crime really did accur, and the circumstances offered in evidence seem to point suspiciously toward the defendants. The events as they transpired on the night of the alleged kidnaping seem to be about as follows: Smallcomb arrives in Tia Juana shortly after dark with his prisoner, Crosthwaite. On one side of the railroad track stands Cruz, a Mexican official; on the other side stands another Mexican road track stands Cruz, a Mexican official road track stands Cruz, a Mexican official; on the other side stands another Mexican official who seems to be watching the proceedings with unusual interest. The train arrives and Crosthwaite and Smallcomb go to Mosier's stable; Smallcomb leavés Crosthwaite in Mosier's care and Marsh, a Deputy United States Marshal, comes along and takes the prisoner over to Smallcomb's house, which is situated only a few hundred yards from the Mexican line. Presently Smallcomb hears pistol shots; nouse, which is situated only a few hundred yards from the Mexican line. Presently Smallcomb hears pistol shots; he runs out and finds the house door open and the lamp burning; Crosthwaite is gone, so is his keeper. He shouts the alarm and meets Smallcomb and Marsh in the road near the house. It afterward transpires that Crosthwaite was left in the custody of Cruz, the Mexican and that he entirely and the state of the and many others were carefully reviewed by the Court and listened to with great inthe spectators. He said that undoubtedly a broken chain of very suspicious circumstancial evidence; that still there was nothing absolutely first class, as testimony goes. "No one saw the act committed," said the Court, "and these circumstited," said the Court, "and these circumstances are considered to the court of the mitted, "said the Court, "and these circum-stances are hardly explainable upon the grounds of an accidental coincidence. I have fully considered the evidence in the case and I think that I would not be justi-fied in doing otherwise than to hold the de-fendants to answer." The ball was fixed at $1000, the original amount, in each case, which was promptly furnished. ALL FOR BLAINE.

The Sentiment in Los Angeles is All One Way.

There is no question but what if the selection of the Republican candidate for President was left to Los Angeles, or for that matter, to California, the whole matter would be settled in short order, and the magnetic man from Maine, James G. Blaine, would be named by a majority that would open the eyes of the people. Yesterday several telegrams were received from Minneapolis giving the status of the California delegation, and numerous replies were sent urging on the Southern California delegates to at once rally to the support of the Plumed Knight.

During the afternoon the following telegram was sent to Minreapolis:

LOS ANGLES. June 7.

Los Angeles, June 7.

To Hon. M. H. de Young, Caisfornia Headquarters, Minneapolis: At a called meeting of the Young Men's Republican Club, 483 present, it was the unanimous demand that Hon. E. F. Spence support J. G. Blaine.

J. M. MEREDTER, First Vice-President.

E. W. KINSEY, Secretary.

At a regular measure.

E. W. KINSEY, Secretary.

At a regular meeting of the Lincoln Club, held last night, on a resolution offered by Phil Stanton the following telegram was sent to Minneapolis:

To Hon. E. F. Spence, Gen. E. P. Johnson and M. H. de Young, Minneapolis, Minn.:
The Lincoln Club, of Los Angeles, in meeting assembled, requests you to support James G. Blaine for President in case his name is presented to the convention.

Chairman Executive Committee.

A dispatch was received in this city last night, dated at 7:40 p.m. in Minneapolls, and sent by the well-known colored politician, Thomas Pearson. It read as follows: "Sure as fate Harrison is defeated. No crow this fall!"

The Executive Committee of the Lincoln Club will be at the courtroom of Judge Stanton every night this week to prepare for the grand ratification and receive names on the club membership roll. All old members of the Flambeau Club are requested to be present at above quarters tonight.

CRIME AND CRIMINALS.

Another Much-married Man Has Come to Grief.

C. S. Bennett Must Answer to Bigamy as Well as Embezzlement.

Two Young Women Ruined by the Fellow's Rascality.

rdino Man Locked Up on Charge of Embezzlement—Chinaman ster-Petty Offenses.

The officers who arrested C. S. Bennett, the Contra Costa county embez-zler, night before last did not know that they had captured a "prize candy package" until Constable W. L. Pemberton of Brentwood reached this city yesterday afternoon.

As was stated in these columns ves terday Bennett is a prominent contractor and is charged with baving embezzled $1200 belonging to persons he was building for, and it was believed that this crime caused him to skip out, but as is always the case there is a wo-man at the bottom of Bennett's man at the bottom of Bennett's troubles, and she happens to be a very angry wife from the East. Bennett is a much-married man and the fear of arrest for bigamy put the runaway idea

In his head.

Bennett came to the Coast about three years ago and branched out as a contractor. He met a young lady of sixteen summers at Tracy, San Joaquin county, and a strong affection sprung up between the two. A year ago the couple were married and took up their residence in Brentwood. The young wife was quite a society leader young wife was quite a society leader before she was married, aed she soon branched out in her new home and became a great favorite.

Bennett was quite successful in his business and both became general favorites. For this reason the shock was vorites. For this reason the shock was great when it was learned about a week ago that Bennett was an embezzier and that he and his handsome young wife had disappeared for parts unknown. They disappeared one night and shipped all their belongings out of

It was several days before the officers could get any trace of them. Constable Pemberton finally learned that Bennett and wife took the southbound train, but he could not learn their destination. He

he could not learn their destination. He telegraphed a full description of the man to Chief Glass and started on the trail, fully determined not to return until he had captured his prey.

He took in every town between this city and Contra Costa county, but could get no trace of Bennett until he reached this city and learned that Bennett was safely locked up in the city prison. The embezzler's wife is in this city with their five-weeks-old child, but she their five-weeks-old child, but she has not yet been to see him. She is so prostrated since she has learned that the man has a legal wife living that she can do nothing. She is in a most pitiful state, and it is hard to tell what the more right will de poor girl will do.

When Bennett married her a year ago she did not know that he had a wife back East, and from subsequent events it is evident that Mrs. Bennett was not made acquainted with her hus-band's rascality until she reached Brentwood last Sunday evening. Her husband has written weekly letters of the most affectionate type ever since he came to the Coast, and she had every reason to believe that he had made a reason to believe that he had made a good home for her and would meet her up the road or at the depot at least.

When she reached the depot and failed to find an open pair of loying arms awaiting her she broke down and began to cry like a baby, for she, too, is very young and has not yet reached her 20th birthday.

There were quite a number of town's people at the depot when Mrs. Bennett arrived, and the sight of a pretty young woman in tears brought half a dozen men to her side instantly. In a short time they knew that she was the short time they knew that she was the short time they knew that sne was the embezzler's legal wife. The story of her husband's true doings was broken to her as gently as possible, but all they could do did not prevent her from going off in a fit of hysteria. She was taken care of by the ladies of the town, and she is now there awaiting the return of the man who has not only ruined her life but another innocent girl's. Mrs. Bennett stated that she and her husband had been married but a short time when he made up his mind to come to this Coast. She heard from him reg-ularly and had no idea that anything was wrong until she reached his new home. She wrote him that she was coming, and yet he gave her no warn-ing that she would not be properly re-reived. Had she known how things stood she would never have left he home in the East.

It is believed by Constable Pember ton that Bennett waited as long as he could and then picked up and left, thinking that he could escape his wife. He said nothing to wife No. 2, so far as is known, and had he not been arrested here it is possible that he and his second wife would have made their way across the Mexican line within the next. across the Mexican line within the next

North at 10:40 last night. Mrs. Bennett No. 2 is still in the city.

A TOUGH BOY.

An Unknown Youngster Smashes in a Chinaman's Head. Late yesterday afternoon Officer Rohn, of the Chinatown squad, found a well-dressed Chinaman named Ah Gee in what seemed to be a dying condition on an out-of-the-way-sidewalk in China-

Gee was bleeding profusely from an ugly wound in the head and the officer moved him to the city receiving hospital as soon as possible. Police Surgeon Bryant examined the heathen's head and found that he had been wounded by some blunt instrument on the side of the head. While the wound is serious, it is not dangerons and Gee may be out in a few days.

As soon as the Cainaman was able to talk he stated that a white boy slipped up behind him and struck him with a big rock. He had not spoken to the boy and is at a loss to know why the rascal attempted to take his life. The boy ran away as fast as he could after throwing the rock and has not yet been captured. ANOTHER EMBEZZLER.

A San Bernardino Man is Captured in This City. Yesterday afternoon Detectives Benson and Auble picked up L. E. Veronee on the streets, who is wanted in San Bernardino for embezzlement. Chief Glass received a description of the fellow by wire night before last and the boys went to work on the case yester-boys went to word day morning.

Veronee had disguised himself by putting on a pair of heavy eye glasses, but it did not work and he had not been on the streets many minutes before he was being marched to the city prison.

He was working on a schoolhouse near San Bernardino and beat every-body in the neighborhood. He got away with his boarding-house for $60, and skipped, and it is for this piece of rascality that he was arrested on a charge of embezzlement. He will be taken back to San Bernardino today.

John Davis, alias Charles Fair, was arrested by Officer Ihms last night on a warrant charging him with petty larceny committed at Pasadena.

There were three drunks in the Po lice Court dock pesterday and Justice Owens promptly gave them from three to five days each in the chain gang.
Louis Reze, the youthful burglar, was before Justice Owens on 100 more burglary charges. A strong case was made against the fellow and he was held with ball fixed at $5000 in each case. He is now under $25,000 ball. The zanja-ducking case against Mrs. Anna Pitkin, who threw a neighbo: named Mrs. Schneider in the zanja a couple of times the other evening, was tried in Justice Austin's court yester day and she was acquitted. From the evidence it seems that both women en-gaged in the crime of battery to a cer-tain extent and the court did not care to fine one without punishing the other. Joseph Hughes, the ex-special officer who was arrested a few days ago for taking $5 from a woman on a promise that he would "square" a case against a friend of hers who was in jail, came up for trial in Justice Austin's court yesterday. The evidence was conflicting and Hughes was discharged.

Now, all railroad men, and some others, know what is a time card, yet, strange as it may seem, this simple little query staggers most of the employes who have thus for wrestled with Mr. Muir's catechism. As wrested with AIR. Mulr scatechism. As many men who can make a time-card can-not define it, the failure to answer this question is not a serious matter. There are others, however, regarding signals, train orders and various details vital in their importance, which it is imperative for employes to know and explain intelligently. Several of the new rules are direct reversals of the old, and the signal which can be used safely on June 30 would wreck a train if used on June 30 would wreck a train it used on July 1. To suddenly discard the methods which have been so long in vogue on the Southern Pacific and take up new ones so widely at variance is quite a serious matter.

WOULD THE NEW BOAD PAT. The Salt Lake Tribune says, regarding the new road to be built between that city and San Francisco:

The best way to estimate what the road would probably pay is to first get its cost a railroad from here to San Francisco would be about 1000 miles...perhaps fifty niles less. To get out of the State of California and the state Aralroad from here to San Francisco would be about 1000 miles—perhaps fity miles less. To get out of the State of California on the route proposed, as we figure it, is about 266 miles from San Francisco Bay to the Nevada line, just this side of Beckwith Pass. That much of the distance would involve a good many bridges and some very heavy cutting in the mountains for perhaps thirty miles, and it might altogether cost, fully equipped, $40,000 amile. From Beckwith Pass to this place there would be but, one bridge, and that a cheap thing over the Truckee. There is not a point where there would be any very heavy cutting, except, perhaps, for a dozen miles over the Toyabic range. This side of Beckwith Pass the road ought not to cost 10 exceed $12,000 a mile, but placing it at $20,000 we have the whole line equipped for $35,000,000. Six per cent on that for operating expenses and 6 per cent, interest on investment show that to make the road a profitable investment it will have to pay $3,000,000 per annum. Working 300 days in a year it will make it necessary for the road to earn $10,000 a day, or on 1000 miles, $10 per mile. The road will traverse the mineral belt of Western Utah and Nevada, and it will place 100 mining districts under tribute. To earn the necessary money on the Grat 165 miles from this city the road will have to pay $1050 a day. To say nothing about passengers, nothing about machinery, merchandise, and coal to go out, and Nevada wool, beef, grain and vegetables to come in, at $3 a ton, 550 tons of ore per day would pay the required amount. The next 200 miles from this city the road will have to pay $1050 a day. To say nothing about passengers, nothing about machinery, merchandise, and coal to go out, and Nevada wool, beef, grain and vegetables to come in, at $3 a ton, 550 tons of ore per day would pay the required amount. The next 200 miles would do quite as well. Then for 100 miles further on the road would run through sait marshes and close by low-grade mines, which, possibly, would be made valuable would have nothing in itself of value for probably 200 miles, but that is all of the space on the road that would not be profitable. The other end of the road would come out for 170 miles through the richest part of California, and, striking the mountains, it would at once enter a magnificent timber country, and would tap all the northern valleys of Plumas county, which are very splendid. We believe the local traffic there of the road would be ample to pay 6 per cent. on the investment and 6 per cent. for operating expenses, leaving the through freight and travel a clear profit beside.

While in one sense it would be a parallel road to the Ceptral Pacific they would be rivals in nothing except the through business and in carrying lumber out of the Sierras and the freight of the Sacramento Valley. With the road built and paid for, Sierras and the freight of the Sacramento Valley. With the road built and paid for, the Central Pacific would not be able to reduce prices to a point to hurt the new road, because its fixed charges would not compare with those of the Central Pacific. Then, another thing is that the trade of California nught to be doubled, and that at Inen, another to be doubled, and that at once. In that State there are about 2,000,.000 000 people: it ought to possess 12,000,000 and the addition ought for a long time to increase the business of that State in production to the population gaines. The increase the business of that State in proportion to the population gaines. The orchards have only just begun to bear. With the rivers utilized it would be seen that the valleys as yet have done nothing in comparison with what they ought to do. The mountains are full of lands which are exactly adapted for a thousand products. San Francisco is and always has been the great commercial center of the Pacific Coast, and to say that a city so situated should only run one railroad to the East is a proposition which every man in the East would laugh at.

Organization of a Strong Carng algn Club-Officers Elected. There was an enthusiastic meeting of the First Ward Republicans held last evening at Banquet Hall, corner of Downey avenue and Chestnut street. The meeting was called to order by Robert Sharpe, of the County Central Committee, who made a short speech. The object of the meeting was, he said, quite well known. It was the intention, he believed, to organize some sort of : club and to commence preparations for a general ratification meeting, to be held as soon as the result of the Minne apolis convention should become known. He hoped that all factional be kept out of the club which should, to succeed, be as harmon ous as possible.

He then announced that nominations would be in order for a chairman either temporary of permanent, as might be preferred by the meeting.

M. D. Johnson nominated J. A. Muir

as permanent chairman, and upon his unanimous election he was escorted to the platform by Messrs. Johnson and Weeks.

William J. Washburn was chosen retary by acclamation and escorted to his seat by the committee.

It was decided upon motion of Mr.
Sharpe to choose four vice-presidents, one from each precinct of the ward.

There was some discussion in regard to the method of choosing these four vice-presidents. Col. D. Jones moved

A ballot was taken, resulting as follows Brown, 30; Weeks, 17. Mr. Brown was declared treasurer of the club.

Robert Sharpe moved that all present be invited to sign a roll, to be known as the membership roll, and at the same time deposit rhe sum of 50 cents. Thirty-six gentlemen responded at once, and the club then proceeded to consider the subject of by-laws. It was moved that a committee he appointed. moved that a committee be appointed to draft a set of by-laws and report at

H. D. Payne thought it well to adjourn subject to call of the president, as it would probably be necessary to meet and ratify before another regular meeting of the club. A motion to this effect was made and carried.

The following Committee on By-laws was then appointed: M. D. Johnson, chairman; Capt. Tyler and H. D. Payne; on Permanent Place of Meeting, Robert Sharpe, chairman, George Weeks and J. V. Wachtel; on Membership, G. W. Stockwell, chairman, A. E. Melgs, H. J. Stafford, George Weeks and Dr. W. D.

M. D. Johnson moved that the club bear the name of the Presidential nomi nee, whoever it might be. The motion was then seconded and carried unani-

H. D. Payne and Robert McGarvin were appointed a committee to provide proper transparencies on the occasion of ratification. Upon motion of Capt. of ratincation. Upon motion of Capt.
Tyler a committee consisting of Mr.
Sharpe and H. S. C. Langworthy to secure music for that occasion and als to confer with the general committee on arrangements from the other clubs. The meeting then adjourned for one week, or subject to call of the presi-dent.

New Electric Systems to be Used on Stree arrived:

"It might almost be said even now," said
J. J. Haley, outside agent of the Southern Pacific Company, yesterday, "that the overhead or troiley wire system for propulsion of electric cars is out of date, athing of the past, practically defunct. The most wonderful strides are being made every day in the using of electricity as a motive power, and I have no doubt that in a short time our street cars will be running by electricity in every direction, all over the sight."

Mr. Haley could not go into any detail of explanation, because, he said, it is too early. The tests and experiments are no sufficiently advanced yet to make them a practical certainty, but enough has been discovered to satisfy electrical engineer that the utmost hoped for of the subtle cur rent as a power will soon be within their reach. He admitted, however, that the managers of the Market street system are looking into all the new discoveries will reach. He admitted, however, that the managers of the Market street system are looking into all the new discoveries with the view to equipping their new lines with the most practical and effective of them.

Mr. Haley further stated that two experimental roads now in operation, one in Australia and the other in London, seem to have made the completest application of electrical power, and the merits of both are being looked into by the company. On one of these roads the car gets its supply from an underground wire, and on the other from stations at regular intervals along the route—that is, every block or two the car will come in contact with a wire or pole from which its battery is charged.

Both systems are said to be very complete and satisfactory in their workings, and it is not improbable that one or the other will be adopted on the Church and Fillmore lines and also on Sixteenth street and the Park lines.

ines and also on Sixteenth street and the Park lines.

In his war against the trolley wire Mayor Sanderson has had a large experience with electricity in the past few months, and he likewise is quick to prophesy that the overhead wire must go whot sitegather because it is a dangerous thing in large cities and is being legislated against as a menace to public safety, but because so much better, cheaner and more practicable appliances have been discovered.

"One great advantage of the new system," said he, "is that it will admit of cars so very much reduced in weight. With the trolley wire system both the cars and trucks are so tremendously heavy as to make anything but easy grades out of the question. I understand that the new style of cars are very light and ordinary grades are no obstacle whatever."

The baseball game between the cable and electric boys at Athletic Park terday afternoon was well attended and was thoroughly enjoyed by the spectators. Taken as a whole, the game was tors. Taken as a whole, the game was an interesting one. There was some good and some bad playing, but as a general thing both sides did well. It was rather one-sided until the last two innings, when the cable boys came up with a rush, and it looked for a time as if they might pull the game out of the fire, but fell short, the game standing 11 to 12 in favor of the electrics.

We trust that again the prize fighter has reached the crest of the wave and must descend until he finds his proper level among brutes and criminals. This Slavin-Jackson battle ought to end the prize-fighting craze. Surely this generation has had enough of it. Of one thing, at least, Americans can be proud. Every argument in its favor is a fallacy, and every assertion is mendacious. There is nothing about it which cultivates any faculty of mind or body which may not be cultivated better in a dozen different and innocent ways. It does not cure cowardice nor encourage bravery. It is absolutely useless in every way, since no man who is not a fool relies on his lists to profect him from the assault of a ruffian.

There is but one excuse for any man who goes to see a prize-fight, and that is one which he should be loath to plead. It is that in every man there is a leaven of the brute, and that at times it becomes too strong to be resisted. THE Santa Fé Railroad Company has donated $1000 to the tornado sufferers of Wellington, Kan.

THE San Diego Sun is no longer to represent the rising but the setting orb of day. It is to be re-converted into an evening paper.

Gov. McKinley has been selected for permanent chairman of the convention at Minneapolis. He will make an excellent presiding officer.

THE Blaine managers appear to have stolen a march on the Harrison forces at Minneapolis by gaining control of Credentials and Platform Committees.

AN Eastern exchange hopes that the coming campaign will be one of education, and suggests that McKinley and Mills be paired off to discuss the tariff, and Reed and Carlisle to take up general issues. Good idea.

THE Executive Committee of the California State Central Committee has adopted strong Blaine resolutions and telegraphed them to the California delegates at Minneapolis, urging the latter to support the Maine man.

THE Mayor of St. Petersburg, Russia, having been detected in adulterating flour intrusted to him for the famine sufferers, has resigned his office. He can now make considerable money by coming to America and starring as the champion mean man.

BERRY, the famous executioner, now retired from active practice, proposes to devote his best energies hereafter to securing the abolition of capital punishment. An exchange thinks this ooks a good deal like a case of a man who ascends the ladder of fame and then tries to pull it up after him.

THE English capitalists who are investing $3,000,000 or so in the Trenton (N. J.) potteries, must have considerable hardihood. Almost any freetrade newspaper in the country could tell them that the abominable McKiney law is destroying the pottery business and crippling all the other in-

A bug no bigger than that hardly seems worth talking about, but it is. Some of the boys and girls who have had a bout with him recommended that the public proseduring the past six months will think so, at any rate.

THE city of San Bernardino is sorely pressed financially, and after adopting various measures of retrenchment, it is proposed to sell a plot of ground set aside for burial purposes and known as Evergreen Cemetery. The Times-Index arges properly that this is a mistaken policy. If the tract in question is not required for cemetery purposes, it should be kept for a park.

NOTWITHSTANDING all the talk about the hard-up-ness of Brazil, that country a not entirely bankrupt. It has just succeeded in floating a loan of $5,000, 300 with the Rothschilds at 5 per cent., the bonds being taken at 97 cents on the dollar. Now that Brazil has dieolved her quasi-partnership with the English merchants who led her into extravagance there is a good chance for her to recoup her shaken fortunes.

Some strong telegrams were sent to Minneapolis yesterday, urging our local representatives in the delegation to support Blaine. The suggestion is timely and appropriate, and we can readily understand how Mr. Spence might accept it in deference to an overwhelming sentiment. But Mr. Johnson, flaving gone to the convention as an avowed champion of Mr. Harrison, could not, of course, think of such a thing as voting for Mr. Blaine.

SINCE we have all had our fling at New York for its dilatory course with respect to the Grant monument, it is only proper that we should acknowl edge the promptness with which the money was raised when Gen. Horace Porter placed himself at the head of the movement, and went at it with vigor. Inside of sixty days over $350,000 was raised and the subscription was appropriately closed on Memorial day.

their bloody battles and established peace, it is true, yet there were lurking bands of savages, straying from the "Miami Country," to cause a dread among all the white inhabitants except those located in strong settlements.

What Shall We Do With Our Mon

The records of crime now-a-days frequently bring into public notice people who are guilty of the most heinous with the most inexplicable mo tives. It is hard to understand how any numan being could be so constituted as to perpetrate a series of most cowardly nd most bloody murders like those attributed to "Jack the Ripper," apparently for the mere lust of murder Whether Deeming was the veritable 'Jack the Ripper' or not may never be fully known, but the murders traced to his hands make him at, least an equal monstrosity.

A case which has recently excited much attention in this country is that of the messenger boy, Adam Fales, who murdered and robbed Thomas Hayden in Newark, N. J. The case of Jesse Pomeroy, the boy murderer, who made away with several of his youthful companions for the mere love of killing, is still held in vivid remembran ce.

Instances like these make it manifest that some people are born into the world with a homicidal mania, which, at some period of their lives, is certain to take possession of them and dominate their actions. Such people are not crazy; they are rational enough to make their way in the world by ordinary methods and often they give no indication to their most intimate associates that there is anything abnormal in their mental or moral constitution. Often it is found that they are peaceable and law-abiding in dispositions until, at a single bound, they go to the extreme length of crime. They are like the caged lion that cannot resist its ferocious instincts when it smel's fresh blood. When such monsters of human kind once taste the pleasure of murder they are as dangerous to the race as the most ferocious brute It is impossible to escape the belief that people who manifest such tenden cies are born with the homicidal mania implanted in them. They are, in one sense, the victims of heredity. They can no more escape this moral deform ity than the child who is born physically misshapen can assume symmetrical proportions

It becomes a serious question what society should do with such monstrosities when they are brought to light. Hitherto they have generally been tried for their crimes and, on conviction, have been imprisoned or executed. Sometimes they have been acquitted on the ground of insanity. But it is not just to society that such creatures should be allowed to go at large. Whether they are morally responsible or not they should be kept where their fiendish instincts can never again be brought into play. It is not just to the race they should be allowed to transmit their perverted instincts to posterity.

Some time, when the science of pe nology shall have reached greater perfection than at present, we believe there will be prison-asylums where this class of criminals may be confined, and where they may even be compelled to endure life sentences. The great number of moral irresponsibles, as determined by process of law, who are now freed from the consequences of crime may then be kept from menacing society.

Brazil is not only a country of vast material resources, but also of very considerable capital. Her government has shown remarkable stability, considering the brief period that the nation has been a republic. Besides, and most important of all, Brazil has adopted an American policy. The Brazilians negotiated a reciprocity treaty with the United States, and they refuse to grant the United States and Brazil are bene fited by the treaty, and England herself shows that she appreciates the commer cial and financial strength of Brazi when her great moneyed house lends millions to the new republic. The sum and substance of the Brazilian situation is that the troubles of the country have been largely through British sources and that nothing has occurred to shake eriously or impair the fabric of popular government.

An English newspaper remarks that epublican sentiment in England "has disappeared before the painful evidences of vulgarity in America." Aw really! And how about, those compart ment-car episodes, the baccarat devel opments, the Cleveland-street scanda and the Jackson-Slavin prize fight? It the aristocratic sentiment in America should disappear before such painful evidences of worse than vulgarity in England it would be a blessing. John Bull is sometimes a low fellow as well

Los Angeles Treates. Much to the regret of a small coterie of pleasure seekers who were willing to pay (at popular prices) for the privilege of enjoying a joke, the tragedy of Louis XI was not repeated by William John Kohler and his "company of players" last night, and to those who had already purchased tickets their money was refunded. The reason assigned for this sudden termination of the weel's engagement was the inability of Miss Lizzie Crews, the leading lady, to appear on account of sickness, but it was currently rumored that the confiscation of the "properties" by their respective owners, owing to the paucity of the box office receipts, had something to do with it. Then again it was further whispered that Miss Crews's malady was indirectly due to too frequent applications of a popular, but fall ious remedy for a severe attack of the green-eyed monster which was induced by the reception justly accorded to the only member of the company who deserved it. However this may be, the fact remains that the management very wisely concluded to accept the first excuse which offered, and te minated an engagement that could not but have resulted disastrously to both parties to it.

DETROIT (Mich.,) May 29.-[Special dispatch to the Cincinnati Times-Star.] Capt. William A. Gavett, for more than twenty years one of Mr. Blaine's most confidential friends and trusted political advisers, tonight gives your correthe most important contributions to the political literature of the country yet made during this campaign. Of Mr. Gavett's standing campaign. Of Mr. Gavett's standing with and understanding of Mr. Blaine's feelings and wishes there is not the slightest question. During Mr. Gavett's recent visit to Washington he saw Mr. Blaine daily, and with him discussed every phase of the political situation. While Capt. Gavett speaks only for himself, those who know best his intimate personal relations with the 'Prince of Diplomats,' will take the following in terview as near a reflection of Mr. Blaine's own position, ideas and wishes as will be vouchsafed to his friends before the great convention at Minneapo lis:

"I have long realized," said Capt.
Gavett tonight, "that some one of Mr.
Blaine's trusted friends should put before the public the inside facts relative to his so-called withdrawal letter.
While I do not propose to quote Mr.
Blaine nor claim to have his authority to do so I state upon my own recognity. to do so I state upon my own responsi bility, based upon the most reliable in-formation intrusted to me, that Mr. Blaine only wrote the letter that he did upon the urgent request, in fact the d-mand of the President, after mattre consideration. While the letter was not what the President wanted it was all Mr. Blaine would consent to grant. If did not say that the President ought to be recommand of express a prefer. to be renominated, or express a prefernot say anything about Mr. Blaine's heafth and if did not say Mr. Blaine would decline the nomination provided the convention, in its wisdom, saw fit to select him. None of these omissions from that letter were accidental.

"Had Mr. Blaine refused to stand side upon the urgent demand of his imnediate sperior officer, the President Mr. Blaine's self-respect, if nothing else, would have forced him to retire from the Cabinet, a position which he did not care a rap for. It would then have been announced through the press that there was a split in the Republican party. "Contests would have followed in every district and State convention in the country, and, if a large majority of the delegates had been selected in favor of Blaine the President and his friends might have claimed that the President had not been given the op-portunity to which he had been en-it.ed of his position. "Now the delegates have all been chosen without the interference or influ ence of Mr. Blaine. The President and other candidates have made their all strongest efforts, while Mr. Blaine has made absolutely no effort to secure even one single delegate, so that if the con-vention shall decide that the sure read to success is through Blaine's nomina tion, neither the President nor any of his friends can fail to acquiesce without, a murmur, and all candidates and their supporters must cheerfully wheel into line and give loyal support to the nomi-nee. Hence it will be at once realized, when these facts are considered, that Mr. Blaine's magnanimity in consent-ing to stand aside and let the President secure the nomination if he could has and paved the way to victory, although the sacrifice Mr. Blaine made seemed at the time to have robbed himself of the great honor he has so long desired and so richly earned.

"I know that Mr. Blaine desires to be President, and that Mrs. Blaine desires that he shall be President. That a great majority of the Republicans of his country desire he should be President seems evidenced by the outpouring of sentiment throughout the whole country, and I give it as my best judgment that Mr. Blaine will accept the nomination in the grandest letter ever written by any American statesman.'

San Bernardino 'innes-index.]

There is not the slightest doubt but that a full understanding was had between Senator Felton and M. H. de Young that de Young should receive the support of Felton for the Senatorship next winter when the Legislature meets. It was so understood by Col. H. G. Otis, of The Los Angeles Times, who was present and heard the conversation last winter which consummated the understanding that led up to the election of Felton. That Col. Otis does not know the whole matter from beginning to end cannot be considered for a moment. He does know and his version of the understanding has been made public. Mr. Otis is an independent, vigorous and conscientious editor and gentleman. and conscientious editor and gentleman. His only motive in making public that understanding was that the ends of justice may be subserved. De Young, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, fights the battles of the Republican party in the northern part of the State as Col. Otia does through The TIMEs in the southern. These gentlemen, through the powerful and constant influence of their papers, are the most potent factors in California politics today. The Republican party should delight to honor them. Col. POLITICAL POINTS

The man who can't tell you who will be nominated at both conventions and just how it will be done is at present the lone-somest an foriornest fellow in the whole neighborhood. It must be added also that he is the scarcest.

According to the best showing of mathe maticians, Mr. Ha rison will have 368 in structed and pledged delegates in the Min neapolis convention. Giving Mr. Blaine 265 votes 'Lown to be pledged and the 238 classed as doub ful, and it will be seen that all he has to do is o stand still. The convention will do the rest.

Some light is thrown upon that Illinois delegation to Minneapolis by the Chicago Evening Journal (Rep.,) which shows that, instead of the forty-ciph being instructed instead of the forty-eight being instructed for the President, only twenty-six are so bound, leaving twenty-two, or nearly one-half, free to act in accordance with what may be deemed by them in the best interest of the narth.

The renowned English mathematicia tertained by any mind during a lifetime tertained by any mind during a lifetime is 3,655,760,000. There is one class of mind of which it would, be rank injustice to say that it permits itself to be thus discursive. That class of mind is the American free trader's, who confines all cerebration to the single idea, "the tariff is a tax."

Hor. Joseph Medill, of the Chicago Tribre, was in lewed on the uppermost topic the other day by the Pasadena Star. Now that the always slumbering popular demand for Baine's cand dacy has broken o he shoud not, Mr. Medill thinks, be held responsible for it and be visited with maledictions as being disloya. to his chief. He has shed imperishable luster upon the administration, at d no apology is needed for the action of his milions of fric ds in withing to see him elevated to the executive chair.

The editor of the Kentucky Jou nal (Dem.) rises to propose this toast to the nominee of his party at Chicago. "May he receive the vote of every man who loves his party, his country and the people. Sound as to tariff reform, and be leving Sound as to term retorm, and be-even that the election of a Democratic President means that the people desire the laws to be administered by Democratic officials in every department, may his vote in November '92 emphasize the victory of '90, when tariff taxat'on was routed and Recdism re pudiated. May his administration be a success, and may his name be John Griffin Carlisle!"

The Blaine wave has gathered such he dway that at present it is seeing all before.

The hold the Secretary of State h it. The hold the Secretary of State has upon the hear's and imagination of the masses of the Republican party is so powerful that it required but little effort to set the demand in operation for his nomination. Unless there is some unexpected check to the movement, Senator Quay's pediction in an Interview stands a good chance of fulfillment by the nomination of Blaine on a single ballot, atter which the convention will proceed to deal with the Vice Pre 'dency.—[Pittsburgh Dispatch.]
Before Mr. Blaine's February letter all

Before Mr. Blaine's February letter all admitted that he would be the overwhelmadmitted that he would be the overwhelming choice of the party if he would accept. His letter was simply one of renunciation, but after the party sentiment has falled to crystalize about any one else, with him out, the demand comes up anew that he walve his objection and accept the nomination. Now rises a chorus of Administration cries to that this, simply a plot a consultancy of that this is simply a plot, a conspiracy of anti-Harrison Republicans who are actuated anti-Harrison Republicans who are actuated by the motive of anything to leat the President. Senator Hill has had his this statement. Senator Hill has had his day. It has been demonstrated that he cannot be nominated. The West and the South do not want him. It is very doubtful if the East outside of that portion controlled by Tammany, has ever had any use for Hill. It is unfortunate for the Tammany leaders that they do not fully realize the cause of the disaster that has overtaken their luckless creation. The Democra's of the country did not look with disfavor on Mr. Hill for strictly personal reasons. the country did not look with disfavor on Mr. Hi.] for strictly personal reasons. They may not have considered him in any respect an ideal P-esidential candidate. Any other man—Gray, Gorman, Morrison, Palmer, Boies—if suspected of being Tammany's pal would suffer the same fate. The route to the Wa'te House does not lie past the door of Tammany Hall."

Japanese Ideas Worth Copying In hygienic matters the Japanese have everywhere a habit which may have a lesson for us. In their nightly bath and morning wash the water is never cold, never warm, but always as hot as it can be borne. To foreigners this habit seems very surprising, but the most in veterate Englishman, if he stays in the the country long enough, abandons his cold tub in its favor. The cold taking which it is suspected must follow it is not found to occur if the water has been not found to occur if the water has been hot enough. This heat is maintained by a little furnace beneath the bath. In the bath the bather or bathers take a prolonged soaking, the washing proper being done on the bathroom floor; then follows a second and final soaking, dry follows a second and final soaking, dry ing with towel, and a lounge in bathing wrapper. This babit seems to promote softness and suppleness of the skin, and by persons inclined to rheumatism is soon found to be altogether preferable to the cold bath in every particular. The poorest of the Japanese hear of a cold bath with amazement, and would be sure the man who used it must be a barbarian. barbarian.

OIL CITY (Pa.,) June 7:—[By the As sociated Press.] Today funeral rites over twenty-two bodies of victims of fire and flood were held, and never were sadder or more impressive scenes witnessed. Gov. Pattison on his arrival today, held a conference with the local Relief Committee. It was stated that 800 persons must be taken care of for eight weeks and that $500,000 will be eight weeks and that $500,000 will be required. A proclamation will be issued calling on the people to aid the stricken valley. A letter was received today from Presideni Harrison inclosing a draft for $200.

It is learned tonight that a Polish boarding-house was burned to the ground and when the fire broke out between twenty-five and thirty workingmen were in the building. The greatest doubts are entertained as to the fate of the unfortunate foreigners. None of them were seen after the building collapsed. It is now believed the property loss will not exceed $500,000 and it is nearly covered by insurance. The Relief Committee so far has received about $15,000.

Mayor Hunt issued a proclamation todoy calling upon all business men to close their establishments so that all could engage in the work necessary to TRUSVILLE (Pa...) June 7.—Today the y of Mrs. Quinn was found in a rel factory half a mile from her resonce. It is believed other bodies will e found when the débris is removed. A relief committee is busily engaged supplying the needy. Food is becoming scarce owing the fact that trains as yet are unable to reach town. It is estimated that $100,000 will enable Titusville to get on its feet again. The aggregate loss to the city is now placed at $1,500,000.

There are unconfirmed rumors to the effect that fourteen bodies have been found below here. There is no question that a large number floated down the river and lodged somewhere in the timber, which is piled high along the banks.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

Programme and Prospects of the Great Ex. High praise for the Exposition was given in the report made to Congress by the Dockery investigating com-mittee. Here are a few extracts:

The investigation discloses the fact that adequate provision is to be made for a copious water supply, an efficient for a copious water supply, an efficient sewerage, fire, police and electric system, and for trapid transit within the exposition grounds, both by rail and water. The landscape features will be singularly attractive, while the intervals between the buildings will afford ample breathing spaces. The waters of the lake wind themselves auid the buildings and through the grounds with buildings and through the grounds with wholesome and picturesque effect. Indeed, the expenditure will be unstinted to make entire provision for the health and comfort of the visitors.

The general architectural effect is striking and immediate in the histories.

striking and imposing in the highest degree, the blending of nature with art is in beautiful harmony. The interlacing of the land and water constitutes a novel and inspiring picture. The spacious grounds, clothed in vendure, detted with showhour and religious. cious grounds, clothed in vendure, dotted with shrubbery, and relieved at intervals by forest growth, complete the elements of a matchless panorama. It is a worthy tribute to the genius and enterprise of the wonderful city of the

In concluding this report your committee express without reserve their confidence in the assured success of the exposition. In every essential feature it stands unrivaled in all time.

In its scope and magnificence this exposition stands alone. There is nother than the contract of the cont of the American people in the great do-mains of agriculture, commerce, manu-factures and invention, which consti-tute the foundation upon which rests the structure of our national glory and prosperity.

The investigation was thorough, and the report covers exhaustively the status and needs of the exposition. A cutting of estimated expenditures in certain lines and of several of the higher salaries was recommended. The committee estimated the exposition's total income at $29,275,482, and its expenditures at $19,319,088. This represents, of course, the financial status of the local or Illinois corporations.

They Have Caught the Spirit!

Every employee in this house is showing more than extraordinary exertion in trying to serve the public. It seems there is more ambition being displayed in this way than the writer has ever seen in thirty years' experience in selling goods. Not a single lazy employee in the house. Out of the entire force not one impudent or impertinent clerk. It is a force that any merchant should feel proud of. It is a force we feel proud of. If you want a sample it is given with pleasure. If you are only a looker they are pleased to show you. If a question is asked you are sure to receive a civil answer. There is no quarreling behind the counters; there is a spirit of fairness in every act. Goods are represented as they should be. If you are not satisfied with your purchase, bring the goods back and it will be a pleasure to return you the money. There is nothing gingerly given to a displeased customer. Mis-takes are rectified. The customer is satisfied, even at a loss to ourselves. This is our new way, and it is perfectly wonderful how the tide has turned. Nearly double the business of one evil against the employees of another house; no employees taken from another house. It matters not what any one else may say or do, the methods of this business will be on the highest plane of honorable, upright, legitimate merchandising. Candidly, don't you think this plan meets with your approval? Closing Saturday nights at 6. Hundreds have said a good word for the idea. Not a laboring man nor a clerk in the city that does not fully indorse the move. Why is the business of this house showing such a tremendous increase? The public recognize a good act when they see it. Whatever price is named, whatever methods are adopted in an advertisement, the public know we carry it out to the very letter. The proprietor is managing his own business, and now comes in contact with nearly everything that is done, and all friction is removed at once. There is perfect harmony between employer and the employees. The strongest idea is to make this the most pleasant house in the city to work in and to trade with.

THE FIRST DAY'S RESULTS.

Neither Candidate Has a Pledged Ma Jority-Alger Still in the Field. MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.,) June 7.—[By the Associated Press.] The first day of the national convention ends with the Republican nomination still a hidden secret. It is realized by the friends of the candidates that the result depends apon the uncommitted delegates who are pledged to no candidate, and who are claimed for both. The day closed withont perceptible advantage to either side. To be sure the Blaine element side. To be sure the Blaine clement, slected the temporary chairman, but as the selection was not contested by the Harrison element and the election was manimous, the victory was won by default. No occasion occurred during the session of the convention to call out decided manifestations. Blaine's name was wildly cheered, as were the names of Reed and Ingalls. The Harrison people had no opportunity for vocal manifestations, as the name of their candilate was mentioned but once, and then ate was mentioned but once, and then by an opponent.

The managers of both factions maintain tonight the same persistent attitude, claiming everything, but only in in unofficial and non-committal way are begures given out by either. It will require 452 votes to make the nomination. Three days ago both factions were claiming their candidates by 600 or more, but tonight neither side is claiming by over 200 rotes. Alger will probably draw sixty votes on the first ballot, making, it is believed, about squal inroads into the leading contestants, although the Blaine people maintain that his withdrawal at any time will insure the nomination of their danidate. There was less recrimination ridate. There was less recrimination today. There were few quarrelsome seens and it seems to be the general inclination to continue the contest good-saturedly in order to avert lasting hos-like which might imperfit the success of the ticket. of the ticket.

The most potent influence in effecting the general demand for harmony is probably the prominence given the suggestion of a compromise candidate. The Alger men made a demonstration this morning, but were careful to make this morning, but were careful to make no disparagement of either of the leading candidates. The Blaine and Harrison forces made the usual counter demonstrations in the lobby of the botel, but there was lack of the intense rivalry which has attended such occasions during the past seventy-two hours.

The Southern vote is still in question.

No one knows how many colored delegates will vote. Both sides are employing every effort to win the support of scattering delegates, but the latter seem to realize the importance of their position and are disposed to make the most of it. There is no longer a doubt that a number of delegates from the Western and Southern States, instructed for Harrison have made up taeir minds to ignore their instructions and support Blaine.

There will be three candidates formally placed in nomination, Harrison, Blaine and Alger, and possibly there hold the balance of power and prevent a nomination on the first ballot. Then a dark horse may be found. Unusually streng efforts were made today to reclaim the votes of the instructed delegates who are showing indications of deserting Harrison. On the power of the restraining influence to withstand the enthusiastic scenes which the Blaine demonstrations will certainly call forth, depends in a large measure the result of the contions will certainly call forth, depends in a large measure the result of the contest. Many people who believe that the Committee on Credentials will be a controlling factor in the result state that the anti-Harrison element predominates in the committee, and a current rumor late tonight is to the effect that it may be deemed advisable by the controlling faction to postpone the report on con-tests until it is ascertained how promi-nent a part the contesting delegates may be able to play in the convention In the Louisiana delegation the contest involves twelve of the sixteen dele gates. In Alabama fourteen delegates are involved out of twenty-two. In Mississippi and Texas also there are In the former six delegates are involved and in the latter nearly the entire delegation. In Maryland two delegates are involved; in Kentucky two, and in South Carolina the whole delegation of eighteen. In Georgia was a support of the delegation of eighteen. gia two delegates are at issue, and in Blaine delegates will be seated. In the grand total, therefore, the contest involves about sixty delegates, and it will be seen that in a close contest it will be entirely in the power of the committee, if its report is adopted, to exert a controlling in-

The chairman of the Michigan dele gation reports that he estimates that Alger will have fifty-seven votes and the delegation has decided to adhere to him while there is a prospect of advancing his candidacy.

OUTLOOK AT MIDNIGHT.

Blaine Men Fighting for Time and Secur-ing Fresh Accessions.

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.,) June 7, midnight .- [By the Associated Press.] The prolonged suspense and uncertainty are aving a telling effect on the enthusiasm of the crowds in attendance at the While frequent conferences are being held by the leaders the followers of both factions are anxiously awaiting information which may throw light on the situation, which appears hopelessly uncertain. The chief interest for the moment centered in the proceedings of the Committee on Credentials. So close appears the conwith the work, and a poll would indi-cate that the Blaine men are in the ma-jority and control of affairs, though the chairman, Gen. Cogswell of Massachu-setts, is one of the staunchest Harrison men. The committee met at 4 o'clock, but adjusted in medically, and at 8 men. The committee met at 4 o'clock, but adjourned immediately, and at 8 reassembled, but up to 10 o'clock the first contest had not yet been taken up, and the only thing accomplished was the making up of the roll of delegates in the uncontested districts. The probabilities are that with a possible exception or two the decisions of the National Committee in the contests will be affirmed by the Committee on Credentials. The committee adjourned to 9:30 tomorrow, which is looked upon as evidence of the standing of the committee, as the Harrison men wanted to mittee, as the Harrison men wanted to continue the session.

The leaders of the opposing hosts held important conferences at the various headquarters late tonight. At the conclusion of the Harrison conference it was stated that reports received by the committee showed that the President had made substantial gains during the day, and that the Harrison vote, pledged tonight is larger than since the beginning of the contest.

Senator Hiscock stated that the full New York delegation tonight showed a the Associated Press. J Gov. McKinley was elected chairman by the Permanent Organization Committee this evening. It was a cut and dried affair, none of the members caring to bring out a candidate against the tariff expert. The selection was due to the fact that he is conceded to be eminently fair, and while he is in favor of the renomination of Harrison the anti-administration forces did not object. They even sug-gested his name. After the selection of McKinley the

The meeting surpassed even the convention proceedings in point of enthusiasm. The speakers were about equally drawn between the two factions. The Marquette Club opened the proceedings with a campaign song to the air, "Marching Through Georgia," and on an encore responded with the political hymn, "Classeland's a hoodoo as sure as "Cleveland's a hoodoo as sure as you're born." John M. Thurston was introduced and made a long speech, saying among other things:

We are in a vortex, in a surging storm center of preliminary politics. Let us not worry for the future. Out of the contest will come a grand cyclone of Republican enthusiasm that will sweep away once and forever every barricade the Democratic party has erected upon the pathway of American progress. The name upon the lip of every Republican in the country the day after tomorrow morning will be the name of the nominee of the Republican convention. There will be no halting when the battle is once on, and the flag that represents Republican principles, whatever may be inscribed on it, is the banner of the Republican party, of patriot. The cloud of debt that has been hanging over the Pomona cannery has been lifted, and it is now free from debt, the property belonging to R. H. Musie. Mr. Musie bought the property from the Pomona Fruit Packing and Canning Company, and it seems did not know that the property was mortgaged for $6000. The matter, was taken to court and decided in favor of the assignee, Charles Lehman of this city. Thomas Hussy, who has been a resident of this city for some time past, left yesterday for his home in England.

The Board of Trade held a most important matters of vital importance to the city's best interests were fully discussed. There was a large attendance, much larger than usual, and the members seemed unusually keen to do everything that would advance the business interests of the city. Perhaps the most important matter was the coming of the Santa Fé to this city, mention of which has been frequently made in these columns. The committee talked over the various routes which had been surveyed, and to a listener it sounded as though the Santa Fé whistle would soon be heard in Pomona, and that is what we all want to hear. As the committee consisted of only two in number, and as the work was too much for them, several more were added, and it now stands as follows: Phil Stein (president of the board,) F. P. Firey, J. D. H. Browne, John Wasson and R. S. Bassett. The new committee will confer with the different owners of property along the proposed route, and do whatever else it deems proper toward getting the road into the city. The next most important matter was the discussion of building the electric road between this city and Charemont, and between this city and Charemont college, who said that he wanted to see Pomona the center of a spider's web of electric roads, and she would be if the city took proper interest in the matter. He said he wanted Claremont to be a residence town, and only wanted enough Dusiness dens there to furnish the necessities. He wanted the road to be a frest-class affair in every wanted the road to be a first-class affair in every particular, as nobody would patronize a second-class affair. He wanted steel ties, the best quality of steel rails, and the cars, which were to be three in number, to cost $2000 each. To build and equip the three roads in first-class shape would cost $80,000, and while he could not state just then what would be asked of this city, he intimated that the cost would be very small compared with the benefit the city would derive therefrom. The president of the board assured the professor that when the time came Pomona would do all in her power and all that would be expected of her toward getting the proposed roads. The matter will be presented in definite shape not later than July.

Officials Still Agitated Over the Deputies Question.

SAN BERNARDINO. The decision of the Supreme Court respecting the employment of deputies remains the all-absorbing topic among county officials. In the case of the Treasurer, it is found that the decision cannot mains the all-absorbing topic among county officials. In the case of the Treasurer, it is found that the decision cannot affect the salaries paid prior to the rendering of the decision, therefore the eighty old thousand dollars which Mr. Reeves has part has been done legally. In the base of most of the county officers the salaries and specific fees provided by law will enable them to get along for a time, but in a greatly cippled condition. Although the decision brings the state of affairs back to the acts of 1883 and 1885. It does not reinstate the fee system of that time. For in acceoting the officers now held the officials not only accepted them with the salaries attached bycerto, but assumed the labor and responsibilities of the respective positions. The County Recorder has sixteen deputies. Perhaps this number is greater than the duties of the wifee ademand, but with half of these it is evident that he could not pay them from his own salary. He must, therefore, discharge his deputies and simply receive and file the public documents, without completing the records. This can be done without employing assistance in the way of deputies. With this in view, all the deputies in this department were discharged last evening at the end-of the day's work. But another question arises. The county will be found in an awful plight at the end of the year, the records not being completed as the law requires them to be at this time. Will the bondsmen permit things to come to this pass? Should the Recorder resign, could his resignation be accepted?

There seems to be but two things possible, in order that the county government may be continued: First, reversal of the opinion of the Supreme Court; or second, the provision for the First, reversal of the county officials by means of an extra session of these things is brought about there is a strong inclination, which will in all probability be acted upon, of several, of the county officials to resign their positions.

RIVERSIDE.

The Universalist general convention is nolding its sessions in All Souls' Church in holding its sessions in All Souls' Church in this city, the opening session occurring on Monday evening. Hon. A. G. Throop of Pasadena called the convention to order. After an opening prayer, a few words of welcome to the delegates were spoken by A. C. Fish of Riverside President Throop responded in ahappy vein, recounting some of the trials through which the church has had to pass on this Coast, and pointing with just pride to the successes' achieved, especially in the church at Riverside. Rev. E. Manford Clark of Pomona then offered the prayer of invocation, which was followed by the opening sermon by Rev. L. M. Andrews of Santa Paula, who discoursed upon the "Doctrine and Work of the Universalist Church." The sermon was an able presentation of the distinctive tenets of Universalism, and was listened to with rapt attention, and approved by the delegates and laymen or resent. rapt attention, and approved by the dele

Yesterday morning's service began with a conference meeting opened and conducted by Rev. E. Manford Clark of Pomona. He read the Twenty-third Psalm, with expository notes injected as he proceeded. After prayer the conference listened to impromptu remarks by President A. G. Throop, A. C. Fish, Mrs. H. B. Manford, Mrs. G. H. Deere, Rev. L. M. Andrews, Mrs. E. Manford Clark and others. The remainder of the forenoon was taken up with reports of parishes and reports of officers. A new church edifice has been built at Santa Paula and one at Riverside, the latter a magnificent brownstone building. The officers of the State association are: Hon. A. G. Throop, Pasadena, president; Rev. Dr. George H. Deere, vice, president; Rev. E. L. Conger, Pasadena, secretary; A. C. Fish, Riverside, and Mrs. R. V. Haddon, Hanford, assistant secretaries.

The report of the secretary furnished the convention presents the following figures: Total value of church property in the State, $10.4,950, a gain in the year of $33,890; total indebtedness, $15,390. During the year a total of $47,436 was raised for church work. Two new churches have been erected during the year at a cost of $41,000, one of which is located in this city.

Closing Meetings of the Mills Revival.

Much Good Accomplished by the Able Evangelist.

Weekly Meeting of the Santa Ana City Trustees.

Final Sessions of the Supervisors-Wong Wor, the Opium Fiend, Again in Trouble-News in Brief

Mr. Mills has come and gone. A tidal wave of Christian influence has swept over the county and much seed has been sown in fertile soil that gives promise of a bountiful yield. Monday, the last day of the revival services vival services, was a great day for the religious workers, who illustrated by their happiness the joy which attends the return of the prodigal.

The last service Monday evening was held half an hour earlier than usual, owing to the fact that Mr. Mills and Mr. Greenwood had to leave at 9 o'clock on a special train for Los Angeles in order to catch the 10:40 p.m. train for Sacramento, where they began a series of meetings last evening.

Mr. Greenwood found a way to the hearts of the people at the beginning of the server.

Mr. Greenwood found a way to the hearts of the people at the beginning of the service by the manner in which he sang "It may be the last time." Then came the announcement of further meetings to be held nightly during the week by the pastors in the various churches of the city, Orange and Tustin, after which Mr. Mills stepped to the edge of the stage, and from the text "And he came to Cadesh Barnea" preached a powerful sermon.

the various churches of the city. Orange and Tustin, after which Mr. Mills stepped to the edge of the stage, and from the text "And he came to Cadesh Barnea" preached a powerful sermon.

"Now I believe you all know why I have chosen this text for the last night," said the evangelist, as he stood looking down into 2000 expectant faces. "Are you going to Cadesh Barnea? Is it possible some people are so near Christ tonight that they feel His magic touch and yet refuse to accept His word? Are you near the border line? Will you step across? King Herod lost his soul because he would not give up one sin. 'One thing thou lackest,' and that one thing caused him to lose his soul. What do you lack? Will you not change your position? Step across the line.

"People must do the will of God if they want to be saved. Indicate your purpose to God and then He will help you. Humble yourself. Be submissive and ask for assistance. You will get it. If you want a child's purity, a child's hope, I promise you tonight that if you accept Him you will have it. Almost persuded means that you are lost—the saddest of all events."

The work of Mr. Mills is such as appeals to the heart. He is a man, that impresses one with a straightforward, singleness of purpose—that of helping to save souls. He is carnest, conscientious and trushful in his work and in this, no doubt, much of the secret of his success may be traced. A gentleman said a few days ago: "When men get down to the very foundations of character and discover what it is really built upon, they are apt to discern a good many things about themselves they did not know before, and the man who has the power of uncovering all the secret chambers of the soul and compelling his hearers to look into them and see what is here, as Mr. Mills can, can but be the instrument of good in the work of converting men and women seemed to be moved by the statements of what they accepted to be facts indisputable. He appealed to the meason more than to the sentiment, and his carnestness seemed to be moved by

DR. HONG SOI has graduated and received his diploma from the medical schools and Universities in Canton, and made his first professional practice for many years in the hospitals of Canton and Hong Kong, China. He is the sixth of a generation of doctor; in his tamily and has made therough studies of all diseases of the human body. The doctor has had wide experience as a physician, and during his long stay of six years in Los Angeles has made many skillful cure. The doctor cures CONSUMPTION, RHEUMATISM, ASTHMA, CATARRH, SICK HEADACHE, INDIGESTION, WAREFULNESS, NERVOUS TROUBLES,
AND ALL DISEASES that the human body is heir to, by this herb medicine, freshly prepared every day. It would be a benefit to those who are in trouble with sickness to give him a fair trial; his terms are very reasonable. The doctor uses a thousand kinds of medicine which he directly imports from China. Hundreds of voluntary testimonials from patients who have been cured by the doctor can be shown at his office. Please remember the above address and preserve this advertisement.

To Whom it May Concern: I have been sick for nearly two years by suffering with great pains in the back, head, coughing and weakness, and unable to get out from bed for some time. About three weeks ago, having called on Dr. Hong Sol for consultation who pronounced that! was afflicted with kidney disease and lung troubles. He insure me by locating how and where it pains me: and also explained how and when I cough the most, etc. At once I begin to try his medicine, which I found it to be a great help to me. Had taken his medicine for three weeks and now I am gell. This is to certify the public. Sol has cured me of my sickness, and I am cheerfully recommending his to be public. Dated March 2, 1862

The above are two fac similes of many REWARDS OF MERIT or DIPLOMAS of PROPESIIONAL SKILL which have from time to time been awarded to the CELEBRATED CHINESE HYSICIAN, DR. WONG, for his superfor medical abilities and curative powers.

It has long been customary among the Chinese people when one becomes sick and when reeated attempts to cure him have failed, and he is perhaps given up to die, if, after having been aken to an eminent 'physician, he be cured of his disease—the cured, too in addition to the gular fee for professional services rendered, makes the physician a present as a token of gratitude or his restoration to health and the prolongation of his life. This present consists usually of a road plank, presenting much the appearance of a sign-board, filled with characteractifiely meanagiess to the average English scholar, but full of meaning to the successful physician and his friends.

It is not an uncommon thing to see a great number of these COMPLIMENTARY DIPLOMAS are which office wails of Chinese physicians in their native country, and indeed a number of the nost successful once in this country are the happy possessors of a few of these high tokens of very uncerior medical ability.

THE COURTS.

Baxter, the Negro Murderer, Finally Sentenced.

Fifteen Years' Imprisonment for the Killing of Ramsey.

Suit Against a Railroad Company for $10,000 Damages.

Case—Saloon-keeper Convicted of Assault—General Court Notes.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning George H. Baxter, the negro who en-tered his plea of guilty to the charge of murder in the second degree on Satur day last, appeared before Judge Smith in Department One to receive sentence. His counsel, Messrs, Carter and Garrett their client, and Judge Smith, after the nsual preliminary questions, pro-nounced sentence upon the defendant, ordering that he be imprisoned in the State prison at San Quentin for the period of fifteen years, without any re-

Baxter, who was a politician by pro-fession, quarreled with his victim, Joe Ramsey, over the proceeds of a saloen in which both were interested, and, as the latter was going up the steps of the Phillips Block, on the afternoon of December 3 last, to see his attorney with reference to that matter, Baxter shot him from behind and killed him.

GUILTY OF SIMPLE ASSAULT. Thomas Hill, a saloon-keeper, appeared before Judge McKinley in Department Six yesterday morning for rial upon the charge of having assaulted Newton Coberly with a deadly weapon on February 28 last. He was repre-sented by J. Marion Brooks, Esq., while Assistant District Attorney McComas appeared for the prosecution.

The jury selected to try the case consisted of J. J. Adams, R. J. Baylev. W. S. Brigham, W. S. de Van. C. E. Fout, T. Gerling, J. Langdon, F. A. McCornick, J. M. Mitchell, D. D. Morton, J. K. Swanfelt and C. A. Shroude.

The following witnesses, were called for the prosecution: W. B. Duncan, Dr. E. A. Bryant, J. Coberly, C. Story, the complainant Newton Coberly and Officer

W. A. Bosqui.

Their testimony was to the effect that on Sunday night, February 28 last, the complainant and the witness Dancan went to the defendant's saloon for some refreshment. Duncan and Hill had a slight misunderstanding about an ac-count, and after an exchange of com-pliments the latter ordered Duncan ont, but he refused to leave the place, whereupon Hill picked up a butcher-knife and flourished it about. Coberly, who claims to have taken no part in the controversy, was cut on the wrist. Failing in his efforts to eject his customers, Hill seized a spade and belabored them, knocking Coberly down with the warron.

For the defense, W. H. Russell, E. S.
Tanner, W. M. Smith, T. F. Clark, J. W.
Batillo, D. Shafer and the defendant,
Thomas Hill, were called and examined.
Through them the defense attempted to prove the good character of the defendant and endeavored to show that the deandant margly a leased two that the defendant merely ejected two "drunks" from his premises, and that Coberly cut his wrist by pushing his fist through a pane of glass in the front door.

The witnesses Bosqui, Rohn and Dun-can were recalled in rebuttal and G. W. Palmer in sur-rebuttal, whereupon both

The matter, after argument pro and con, was finally submitted to the jury at 5:15 o'clock, that body returning shortly afterward with a verdict of simple assault, whereupon the defend-ant was ordered to appear for sentence on Saturday next.

SUING FOR HEAVY DAMAGES. The case of H. F. Cogswell et al. vs. the Los Angeles, Pasadena and Glenthe Los Angeles, Fasadena and Gien-dale Railway Company, an action to re-cover $10,000 damages alleged to have been sustained by plaintiff's wife by reason of defendant's negligence, came up for trial before Judge Wade in ee yesterday mori the plaintiffs being represented by Messrs. Judson and Hester, and Messrs. Glbbon, Burnett and Dockweller appearing for the defendant.

The jurors selected to try the case were E. K. Alexander, H. Brays, F. C. Carrell, A. D. Childrens, L. Corner, W.

Carrell, A. D. Childress, L. Corbaz, W. T. Dunwell, W. Evans, C. M. Hoff, J. C. Houser, F. Maeder, H. J. Pinney and W. L. Woodward

W. L. Woodward.

The plaintiffs alleged that on the evening of February 8, 1890, Mrs. Viallettie E. Cogswell was out driving Viallettie E. Cogswell was out driving along Pasadena avenue, near Garvanza, when owing to the negligence of the defendant's employés, who had made a deep cut for its track without placing any lights or other signals of warning to show that it was there, the carriage in which she was riding fell sideways into the cut, throwing the lady out. One of her ankles was sprained and the other leg fractured by the fall to her damage in the sum claimed.

The defendant alleges contributory negligence on the part of Mrs. Cogsregligence on the part of Mrs. Cogs-well, claiming that had she exercised ordinary care and diligence the acci-dent would have been avoided.

The case will be resumed this morn-

In Department Five yesterday the trial of the "Temple street grade case" was resumed before Judge Shaw and a jury and occupied their undivided attention all day. The defendants, A. L. Merciam, Antonio Strausse and S. M. Metcalf, introduced testimony to show how their respective properties would be damaged by the propose grade, but for the most part this was merely a repetition of that already offered, only four of the many witnesses examined being new ones. The trial will be resumed this morning.

LANKERSHIM RANCH SOUATTERS. was resumed before Judge Shaw and a LANKERSHIM RANCH SQUATTERS.

In Department Four yesterday Judge Van Dyke and a jury were again occupied all day in listening to the testimony in the case of the Los Angeles Farming and Milling Company vs. W. Hoff, Jr., et al., an action to enjoin defendants from squatting on the Lankershim ranch. The following witnesses were examined for the defense: C. C. Grove, J. T. Moore, J. H. Bell and B. Riviera and the defendants then rested. After E. T. Wright, C. F. Ensign and I. N. Van Nuys had been recalled in rebuttal both sides closed and the counsel then moved the court for judgment as to the defendants Alf and Antuñez for all land alleged to be in their possession except the SE. ½ and NW. ½ of section 28, T. 1 N., R 17 W., which motion was Department Four yesterday Judge taken under advisement. The matter, after being partially argued, went over until this morning and will probably reach the jury this evening.

Court Notes.

Finch vs. John Osborne et al., for ten days.

In Department Six yesterday morning Judge McKinley, at the request of defendant's counsel, and by consent of the District Attorney, deferred the passing of sentence upon Lem You, the Chinese convicted of perjury, until Wednesday next; and set the trial of the Ah Tet case for Monday, June 20. Judge McKinley denied the motion for a new trial in the case of E. B. Woolley ws. Isaiah Wickerd, yesterday morning.

Woolley vs. Isalah Wickerd, yesterday morning.

In the Township Court yesterday, Constable W. E. Pardee of Newhall appeared before Justice Stanton for arraignment upon the charge of battery preferred against him by L. P. Crawford of Pasadena, and was released upon his own recognizance to appear for trial on Saturday, June 18 next.

Alfred Townsend of Eagle Rock was arraigned by Justice Stanton upon the charge of having assaulted C. L. Cooper with a shotgun, and was placed under bonds in the sum of $500 to appear for trial tomorrow afternoon.

OUSTED HIS BROTHER BISHOP. New Departure Inaugurated by Bishop

And now Bishop Mallalieu, who pre sided over the Methodist conference sided over the Methodist conference held here last September, and has many friends and acquaintances in this city, has been pronounced guilty of a very discourteous act toward a brother bishop, John H. Vincent, chancellor, creator and inspirator of the famous Chautauqua movement.

It came about in this way: At each general conference, such as has just been held in Omaha, the Methodist bishops are given their choice of the Bishop Mallalieu, now resident at New Orleans, was elected a bishop before Bishop Vincent. In making his choice Bishop Mallalieu did something which is said to be altogether unprecedented in the history of the church—he took a station already occupied by another bishop.

Thus driven from Buffalo, Bishop Vincent had a narrow choice, unless he

Buffalo people feel the discourtesy deeply, and are inclined to resent it as they decidedly object to losing Bishop Vincent. Commenting on the change, after making some caustic remarks, the Bishop Vincent's departure from Buffalo will be regretted by the many who are interested in the Chautauqua movement, as his new station takes him so far from Chartauqua. But it is not likely that distance will make any difference in Bishop Vincent's affection and interest in Chautauqua; and the fact that he was able to be in Europe last summer while the assembly ran its wonted successful course shows how firmly the ipstitution stands, and gives promise that it will not suffer by its founder's removal from Buffalo.

A communication was read from the City Clerk, notifying the Commissioners of the action of the Council in regard to doing away with the ball and chain for the chain gang, and also that the commissioners had been empowered to employ ten special officers to enable the regular officers to take their vacation. The communication was filed.

The chief reported favorably on the application of Al. Butler for appointment as special officer without pay from the city, and he was elected.

Chief Glass reported the suspension of Officer Bob Martin for neglect of duty in connection with the attempted burglary of the postoffice vault on the night of June 3. The chief formally prefered charges against Officer Martin of incompentency and neglect of duty, and submitted lengthy written statements from the postal clerks and Detective Bosqui, the main facts of which have heretofore been published, all of which showed the officer up in a very bad light.

'Mayor Hazard suggested that the whole matter be submitted to the chief,

in which Commissioner Lewis con

Commissioner Mackey objected, saying that he must have the names read. The chief and a majority of the commissioners are of one political faith and he proposed to guard the interests of the minority, no matter how small they were.

The question of politics then came up and the usual debate ensued. Commis-sioner Mackey claimed that there are but twenty-one Democrats on the force and said that he had made an investigaand said that he had made an investiga-tion and knew what he was talking about. Commissioner Lewis thought that they are about half and half, and the usual talk followed. Finally it was agreed to leave the matter of ascer-taining the political status of the force to Commissioners Mackey and Lewis, the Mayor stating that if it is found that the Democrats have not their fair proportion on the force, he will yote proportion on the force he will vote with the Democrats on new appoint-ments until the proper equilibrium is restored.

The appointments were then proceeded with, and, on motion, the chief was requested to read the list ne had prepared. The chief said he did not know the politics of the men he presented, but he had seen them, and thought that they were good men. He then read the following list: J. W. Tyler, F. R. Armstrong, Vincente Satello, H. Q. Blaisdell, J. D. Fredericks, J. B. Robbins, Marshall E. Singleton, William H. Toohig, William Shack, W. E. Athey, C. R. Stevens, and H. L. Paulding. The names of J. He thought it would be setting a dangerous precedent to go about the matter in any other way, in which view Commissioners Lewis and Mackey concurred. Commissioners hatto could not understand the circumlocution. He thought his word that he had seen violations of the law would be sufficient to secure the revocation of the circumlocution of the law would be sufficient to secure the revocation of the ss in Several Countles in the State Almost Entirely Suspended-Talk of a Special Session of the Legislature.

DEPUTIES' SALARIES.

Far-reaching Effect of the Recent Supreme Court Decision.

The effect of the recent Supreme Court decision against the payment of special deputies out of county funds at the discretion of boards of supervisors, is more far-reaching than was at first supposed, and quite a num-ber of counties will be seriously crippled if some way out of the difficulty cannot be found. This is especially true of counties where the growth and increase of population has been most rapid, as in the case of San Bernardino, the particulars of which were printed in The Times yesterday. That San Bernardino county is not the were printed in The Times, yesterday, That San Bernardino county is not the only county that is seriously embarrassed is shown by the following from the San Francisco Chronicle of Monday:

The recent decision of the Supreme Court against a rehearing of the decision which deprives boards of supervisors of the hitherto freely exercised privilege to oppoint extra deputies for the performance of work in the various departments with salaries provided by the supervisors out of the county treasuries, has caused considerable consternation in the counties affected. The decision certainly leaves county officials in a bad predicament. It makes each one personally responsible for the payment of such deputies as he may feel called upon to employ, and the result is that county work is largely at a standstill.

Prominent residents of the different counties throughout the State are considerably exercised about it, and some of them regard the situation in a very serious light. One such was encountered by a Chronicle reporter yesterday in the person of Louis B. McWhirter of Fresno. Mr. McWhirter said that he had been informed by the county officials of Fresno county that a practical cessation of official business had been caused by this decision of the court. In one office where eight deputies have been kept busy for a long time past their chief has been compelled to discharge them. The business of his office can now only be attended to by himself, and his capacity for work will be the limit of what can be done. It will be impossible to serve writs in many cases, and unless relefacements.

of what can be done. It will be impossible to serve write in many cases, and unless re lief comes in some form or other the offices might as well be closed at once.

Mr. McWhirter explained the situation somewhat as follows: The county government act of 1883 provided that county officials might employ deputies subject to the condition that they should be paid out of the sum allowed the official for his own salary and the expenses of his office. In 1887, however, this law was so amended that the supervisors were authorized, in certain counties to grant officials such assistance as they required. The Supreme-Court holds that this amendment is unconstitutional; that the Legislature has no power to bestow legislative functions upon boards of supervisors. Thus it is that all such assistants as were employed in accordance with the provisions of the amend-such assistants as were employed in accordance with the provisions of the amendment to the county government act must now be discharged or paid out of the pockets of those who appointed them.

The effect of the decision, said Mr. Mc-Whirter, is more serious in those counties which have been making the most rapid progress during the past few years, as they have needed more officials to keep pace with the duties created by their advance ment. There is considerable cause for alarm over the decision, as a new registration of the entire State is to be made this year. In Fresno county alone it is estimated that the cost of the registration will be from $8000 to $9000, while in Alameda be from $8000 to $9000, while in Alameda ounty it will probably cost $12,000. In Tulare county the clerk has openly declared that he cannot undertake to make the registry under the circumstances, and the situation in Contra Costa county is quite as serious. This is a matter affecting the whole State and a speedy remedy is necessary.

The only remedy that has been suggested The only remedy that has been suggested by county officials and others in counties affected is an extra session of the Legislature for the purpose of amending the county government act so as to cover this emergency. It is understood that steps are now being taken in several counties to formulate an appeal to the Governor to call an extra session. When he was informally approached upon the subject he merely remarked that the calling of an extra session of the Legislature was something has sion of the Legislature was s would not do except as a very last resort though he realized the gravity of the situa

[No. 13, International Press Association.]

IN THE HEART OF THE ST. ELLAS ALPS.
Alaska. Aug. 8, 1891.—The Indians started early July 29, after copper, theysout, their moose-hera picks. In their, hands. Their marvelous mine was the same old story about mines. Nuggets as large as peas and walnuts were occasionally found in a gravel bank.
They acted as if they knew they had been "faking," for all were anxious to return at once and they got started back late in the evening. With the exception of Mr. Bowker, a most genial companion, we felt thoroughly pleased at getting rid of them. We were now alone again, and after sorting our material and throwing away all that wecould possibly spare, not even excepting things of some value, we saw that we must pack from seventy to eighty pounds apiece. This was our load as we pulled out the morning of the 30th, expecting to make about five miles a day, but to our surprise we had made [No. 13, International Press Association.] day, but to our surprise we had mad

the upper Copper fiver tributaries were enclosed in a great interior basin and the main stream broke through this rim of mountains near the Pacific coast. Glacial rivers were now coming in from both sides, but the glaciers themselves were farther back in the side valleys as we descended, whereat we heartily congratulated ourselves that the moraines and other difficulties were probably being left behind forever. The river often forced us from the gravel beaches back into the timber where its intricate underbush and the boulders thrown down from the high slopes presented the usual obstructions, but as they were on the level they were at least passable at the rate of half a mile an hour with severe labor. Early in the afternoon, however, we came to the straw-stack that snapped the camel's vertebra, and that forced a new version into the history of the N. Y. Ledger Expedition. A great bluff before us overhung the river for some two miles but we thought we could make along its steep wooded taius to the apparently open country beyond. I will not use the necessary strong adjectives to properly describe that two miles of misery but will condense its many hours of mortal agony into a minute's description by necessary strong adjectives to properly describe that two miles of misery but will condense its many hours of mortal agony into a minute's description by saying it took us until dark to get along it some six to eight hours. It was so absolutely necessary to reach level land before dark, or roost in the trees with the birds, that not over a half dozen rests of a minute or two each were taken on the trip, mere gasping spells when utterly breathless. In one place the moss carpeting growing over a prostrate log, leaning along the steep slope, gave way, limbs and all, under my heavy weight and I disappeared from sight, my pack catching on a huge limb that alone stopped me. My feet dangled among shale and shingle gravel below that, thus stirred up, started to side down as a small avalanche, which accumulating, threatened to toboggun the log, explorer, moss and mountain into the surging rapids this by noon, the trail not being both impassable and impracticable at the same time as usual. We had understood there was but one pass through this range near here and the chances of losing it in this lowering weather was good, even if we could now get through at all, as the Indians said we could not. The 31st was rainy throughout. The forenoon we forded a swollen glacial stream that required over half an hour to make across its many swift channels, and in the afternoon late came to the largest of them many switt channels, and in the after-non late came to the largest of them ait, a full mile in width, a half-hundred channels, and rapids so deep we often had to seize the same pole to fight our way over together, an undertaking of accumulating, threatened to toboggan the log, explorer, moss and mountain into the surging rapids below. I objected to the second item being lost, so after much struggling I managed to crawl out, having lost the ax off my pack, which I had to regain at a peril I would not have risked for a whole ax factory under any other circumstances. That night's camp looked gloomy; the rain had been failing all afternoon and all of the party had been doing the same thing along the slope until tired, tattered, torn, dirty and dejected and in over an hour's severe labor. Our legs were numbed with cold, so we went into camp, building a big fire. That night we were literally drowned out into camp, building a big fire. That night we were literally drowned out by the downpouring rain. So at 3 a. m. we made a fire under a tree, warmed some tea, put on our soaked packs, weighing iffteen to twenty counds more, and started. The dense brush was "wringing wet" and we were glad to get into the icy streams waist-deep to escape its perpetual shower baths. That evening we sent up signal smokes again, for it seemed a little brighter, and I think if an exacting Indian or two had come along about then they could have named their price as packers. The 2d, the bush was so wet we decided to strike for the river bottom to our right, preferring its gravel bed and alternate wadings. Its bed was fully two miles wide, and we could see that it probably determined at its head the mountain pass through which we must pass; and that night we camped where it came out from under an enormous glacier of the great range. The cold wind off this icy river was chilling to the bone in our damp condition. The 3d our course lay across this glacier, the pedestrianism being perfect punishment on the moraines, while the white ice was a little better. It was nearly ten miles over this hummocky highway, but we made it that day and some cases bloody, we looked worse than thieving tramps that had escaped through hedge fences the dogs had gone around. We had carried pack-mule loads for eighty-six miles through the only pass through the roughest range of North America and our misery was getting monotonous and our whole natures cried out for a change of program. We got it. and afterwards proved to be a tribu and afterwards proved to be a tributary of the Copper. Glaciers were everywhere, and at noon, the 4th, we lunched at the foot of one of unusual size. While lunching the doctor remarked there was a large grizzly bear picking huckleberries on a ridge some 250 yards away. Russell, with the Winchester in hand, started over to intercept him and at abouthalf way cot his first shot. The at about half way got his first shot. The rear eight had been raised, in some unrear sight had been raised, in some un-known way, and the best chance was thereby lost, while all the other shots at the flying beast were equally in-effectual. The river bursting out from under this big glacier gave us our first under this big glacier gave us our first serious repulse. It was not very wide, but deep and fearfully swift, and worse than all, earrying huge blocks of ice that would have been utter destruction to encounter. We retraced our steps a mile and crossed the main stream instead. All afternoon and night we could hear the thundering of mighty wallands that shoot the ground lity. avalanches that shook the ground like so many earthquakes. We were now in the very heart of the heaviest range of our continent. The 5th gave us a moraine under foot again and more rain overhead again. We thought we had encountered every conceivable obstruction known to Alpine climbing obstruction known to Alpine climoling during that summer, but we were now treated to a combination of rounded slippery boulders overgrown, with twisted black alder brush on the steep mountain slopes that took the first prize; while we took for the river bottom, intending to word down its manual combined to the steep of the steep prize: While we took for the fiver bottom, intending to wade down it or drown. We got hardly three-quarters of a mile on a gravel bar before the roaring river forced us to the banks again, but we were thankful for that, as the great Alps were now pinching into the mountain torrent extremely highly and we were fearful that we have the statement of the control of th into the mountain torrent extremely tight and we were fearful that its according to the country to the gloomy precipies looming over us, meeting in a mighty canon. Every yard counted now in a struggle that a few miles would probably terminate in our being forced back or opening a more agreeable aspect. We camped on a large lake in the course of the river caused by a glacier from the other side damning it up. It was stocked with icebergs, most of them being at the upstream end showing, I think, a steady wind up the pass. That day's nine miles was one of the memorable journeys of the trip, a fearful struggle with icy torrents, slippery rocks, muddy moraines, hummocky glaciers, willow and alder chapparels, soft mountain turf knee deep, dizzy heights on rock high, about a mile ahead. As the river where we stood was spread out into a great many channels, we started across for the west bank, reaching it after almost two hours perilous work, being compelled to turn back from a number of the worst channels and often obliged to fise a pole for the party to fight the swift current as a whole. While crossing we could see high snow-clad mountains far ahead, a most discouraging sight. Their great distance was the most solacing part, as it was knownthe upper Copper river tributaries were enclosed in a great interior basin and the main stream broke through this andes: and in every way one long to be remembered. The next day was another hard struggle with Alpine difficulties. We struk a well-defined trail early, but whether game of Indian was hard to tell: probably both, with a great preponderance towards the animals as judged by the relative signs. Mountain goats were seen on the high southern cliffs at noon. An animal with palatable meat would have been very acceptable just then, but this goat meat was a little too high for us. Three miles of comparatively good walking over a beach closed the day's record at twelve miles, a most gratifying result under the circumstances. From this camp (56) the prospect ahead was dublous. Enormous precipices flanked the stream that wound back and forth from one wall to another, forcing us to cross it every mile or two or play mountain goat over the tremendous spurs. After emerging from under the glacier the great river rap dly spread to nearly a mile in width, but abat d not a jot in its swiftness. My diary of Aug. 7, starts with "I look on this as the determining day as to whether we shall get out soon." Once out of the spruce woods in which we had camped, we saw that the river concentrated into one impassable channel cut into a vertical cliff, on our side 1,500 to 2,000 feet high, about a mile ahead. As the river where we stood was spread out into a great many channels, we started across Now He Has Just from Rehominated for Governor of Dilnols.

The career of "Friyate Joe" Fifer, recently renominated by the Republicans of Illinois for governor, would twraigh the material for an entertaining revel. His son Joseph visited Bloomington, heard a lawyer make a speech, and returned to his humble home and calling firmly resolved that he would one day become an attorney. The war began about this time, and Joseph and his brother George walked barefooted to Bloomington and there enlisted as privates. This explains why Candidate Fifer in 1888 was referred to as "the Barefoot Boy of Bloomington." The brothers saw much active service, and one day before Jackson, Miss., when the list of those mortally wounded was made up the name of Joseph Fifer appeared on it. His fine constitution enabled him to pull through, and long before he had entirely recovered he was again at the front doing such duty as his condition permitted. He served several months beyond the term of his enlistment, and when the war closed he issuance in the such as the surred to Illinois with $155, ne education and the still strong desire to become agrees! turned to Illinois with $135, ne education, and the still strong desire to become a great-lawyer. Billiards Without the Balls. [Chicago Times.]

(Chicago Times.)
According to an eye-witness a peculiar incident happened one evening recently in a billiard-room of a hotel at Tacoma, Wash. The room was crowded and all of the billiard and pool tables were occupied but one. Two gentlemen entered the room attired in full evening areas. Engaging a billiard table the boy brought the balls, but the players, to his astonishment, told him that they did not need them. Removing their top coats, coats and hats, they took cues and commenced a mimle game.

They made the customary moves around the table, studied apparent plays, made the customary grimaces at misplays, and regularly counted their strings. A wondering crowd gathered about them. They thought the men crazy. A funny part of it was that they never smiled, took the "gaving" of the crowd serenely, and, when the points were marked up, paid for the game and unconcernedly walked out. The solution of the mystery was that the imitation game was played on a wager. and commenced a mimic game.

MAIN STREET SAVINGS BANK and TRUST COMPANY

426 South Main Street, Los Angeles, Cal.

THE DESIGN of this institution is to afford a safe depository for the earnings of a persons who are desirous of placing their money where it will be free from accident and at the same time be earning for them a fair rate of interest. Deposits will be received in sums from 8 to 8500. Working men and women should deposit a least 8 per week from their wages. This will form a nucleus that will ultimately enable you to purchase a home or begin business. Children can purchase 5-cent stamps in all parts of the city and county. It is the best education you can have in saving and caring for money.

On Monday the Baron was tendered a complimentary baron was tendered a compilentary breakfast at Illich's by his gentlemen friends, A jolly party assembled at 11 o'clock. W. J. Brodrick as host of the occasion was in his best mood, and the guests thoroughly in accord. The table decorations were superb and a surprise to the honored guest. The tri-color of France was the subject of the decora-tion, which was done by a friend whose sex prevented her presence. The menu was strictly "en Español," and was most artistically served. The gentle-men present were the Baron Rogniat, W. J. Brodrick, Capt. C. E. Thom, Maj. Tom Rowan, William Rowland, Maj. J. G. Estudillo, Frank Harkness and G. A.

Dobinson.
On Saturday evening Dan Freeman gave a delightful entertainment in honor of the Baron and Baroness at his elegant Inglewood home. The guests from the city were the Baron and Baroness Rogniat, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thom, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Schallert, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Owens, Miss Whitwell.

Mrs. Page of the East Side, corner Hanson and Patrick streets, gave an elegant little reception yesterday afternoon in honor of her birthday. The guests were limited to about twenty ladies and some pleasing music was rendered during the afternoon. Mrs. Browning played, Mrs. Shoemaker, Miss Beardsley and Miss Selby sang, and Miss Helen Mar Bennett recited. Refreshments were served in the dain-tiest manner imaginable, everything tiest manner imaginable, everything from the delicious fancy confectionery to the deftily folded napkins harmonizing with the complete whole. Among those present were Mmes. Lloyd Jenkins, G. Bradford, C. Washburn, Caville, Brang and Wright. Ceville, Russ and Wright. SOME SENSIBLE SUGGESTIONS.

Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood, the oracle of fashionable high life, has recently published a book on the "Art of Enter and sensible things. What Mrs. Sher-wood does not know about the inner wood does not know about the littler circle which is commonly known as "society" and the management of its social functions is hardly worth men-tioning. She denounces the style of American dinners as overdone. The American dinners as overdone. The guests are vulgarly overfed, she hints, and adds that wealthy and wasteful entertainers should learn that wise and elegant economy by which a French family thinks it not beneath them to family thinks it not beneath them to count eggs and lumps of sugar. To illustrate the simplicity practiced by the most cultivated entertainers Mrs. Sherwood mentions lunching with Lord Houghton at a table set for twenty guests and furnished forth with bouillon, a joint of mutton carved by the host, a tart, some peaches. fine hothouse fruit and a glass of sherry. She recalls lunching with Robert Browning on a still simpler menu, and at the beautiful home of Sir John Millais upon tiful home of Sir John Millais upon what would have been a good family dinner with us. Then she notes the contrast between these feasts of reason contrast between these feasts of reason and the ladies' luncheons given in New York, upon which $1000 is not an unusual sum for the hostess to expend for her twenty or twenty-five guests, and which merely covers the cost of the flowers, the favors, the wines and the viands, without touching upon the china, silver and glass, which make the infinitely more costly setting.

Mrs. Sherwood's idea of a dinner, which is good enough for any guest, and which is not beyond the purse of a person of moderate means, she outlines as follows: A soup, a fish, a roast, one Meeting to Discuss the Work in Los Angeles County.

The World's Fair meeting, called for the purpose of discussing the work within the county, was called to order by Charles Forrester in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce at 11 o'clock yesterday, with but few in attendance. Mr. Wells was called to the chair and explained that the object of the meeting was to get an expression from the people in the various districts as to the best plan of organizing working com-mittees and to get some idea of what each district would exhibit that will be a credit to the Southern California display.

Several communications were read from parties finding it impossible to be present. John Burr of San Fernando writes that he will do all he can to further the work in his district and promises a creditable display from their valley. J. J. Jones also writes that Palmdale will make an effort to show what can be raised in Antelope Valley. Dr. Briggs sends word that La Crescenda will furnish a citrus fruit display and will keep it supplied until the 15th Dr. Briggs sends word that La Crescenda will furnish a citrus fruit display and will keep it supplied until the 15th of August. Mr. Bulleck of Puente says that he will see that his district is well represented in grain and potatoes. Long Beach sends word through James Dunn that she will prepare a bas-relief map of Long Beach, San Pedro, the harbor and Catalina Island, and make her display of products around it. He also reported that they had already formed an organization for Worlds' Fair work with Dr. A. G. Cook, R. M. Westler, and James Dunn as Executive Committee, with J. McGarvin as a committee of one to look after the fish exhibit. He also reported that H. C. Dillon would donate for the outdoor exhibit two orange trees, two lemon, two fig, one almond, one olive and a pineapple plant. The ladies of Long Beach will organize their committee next week, when work will begin in earnest, as they propose to have their district well represented. Gen. Shields of La Cafiada thought that their district could get up a fine exhibit, but like all other districts, were at a loss to know how to organize and what to do. He suggested that the county committee appoint a manager to visit each district and talk to the people to give them an idea of what was wanted, how the exhibits were to be prepared and instruct them in their organization. In this way the work could be thoroughly systematized throughout

In this way the work could be thoroughly systematized throughout the county.

After some discussion the suggestion was duly approved, and the chairman of the county committee stated that he would call a special meeting for the purpose of selecting some one to fill this position on Friday, June 10 at 10 o'clock. Mr. Wells then gave an account of his trip to Santa Ana, where he had a conference with the Board of Supervisors of Orange county, and thought that that county would soon be actively at work preparing an exhibit of their products, which would fill a very imposing position in the Southern of the county committee stated that he very imposing position in the Southern California district display.

The meeting then adjourned.

PRESERVING FRUIT.

Superintendent Wiggins at Work on Strictly Scientific Principles. Superintendent Wiggins at the Chamber of Commerce has been busy for the past few days canning fruit, and his tempting jars of loquats and cherries would arouse the envy of any thrifty housewife. Mr. Wiggins puts up fruit on strictly scientific principles. There is no cooking or steaming about it. He simply fills the jar with the fruit, stems, leaves and all, and then pours over it a preparation of sulphurized water and glycerine according to the water and glycerine according to the formula given by Prof. Hilgard. The secret of success lies in having the density of the liquid equal to that of the juice in the fruit. The test is made with a smut spindle which registers the density. The juice of the fruit is squeezed into a slender glass cylinder and the spindle inserted. The point to which the density of the juice raises it is carefully noted, the cylinder emptied, filled with sulphurized water, and enough glycerine added to raise the spindle to the same point. This determines the proportion of glycerine to be used. Although this experiment has proved entirely satisfactory as a preproved entirely satisfactory as a pre-server, it does not retain the color of the fruit, which otherwise looks as fresh as the day it was picked. It is to be regretted that some process cannot be discovered whereby the natural color can be retained, then what a stu-
